Hello,

I am writing as a concerned citizen and will copy this email to paper and US mail as appropriate.

I would like to see Microsoft admit to understanding of the letter of the law, or at least pay some damages. Their size may well have contributed to current economic issues, and here in Austin, TX, it sure would be nice to have the software market opened up again. That is, it would be most beneficial to have Microsoft held to open more of its resources to other software creators, working more cooperatively with open-source developers.

Rather than make a comprehensive answer in this message, I will hope that others add other details, and simply use this message as a "vote" to be cast in favor of requiring Microsoft to work more cooperatively with other companies.

thanks,
Sheilagh O'Hare
